

Ty is one of those people who is simply “wired” differently. As a teacher, coach, businessman, missionary, wildlife expert, husband, and father, Ty has never feared a challenge. During this interview, Ty shared how his dad instilled in him an attitude of “You can accomplish anything you want to accomplish if you’re willing to work for it.” Ty recalls vivid childhood memories of hanging out with his dad doing the simple things of life and he notes that even today, he continues to go to his dad when needing help with an important decision. This interview is packed with incredible lessons for dads who want to teach their children to be successful in life and business. The high point of the interview comes when Ty pays tribute to his dad. He looks directly into the camera and emphatically says, “If I can be half the dad that you are, I will be an incredible dad.”

I Hope to Be Half the Dad
You’ve Been to Me
